

Expatriate Tax & Global Mobility Services

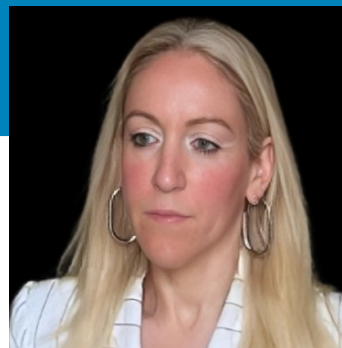

23 October 2026 | 15:15–16:15 GMT

Meeting Chair: Inmaculada Pineda

This year's gathering will provide an opportunity for professionals from across the network to reconnect, exchange ideas and strengthen relationships within the international mobility community. Bringing together experts from different jurisdictions, the session will encourage open dialogue, the sharing of experiences and the exploration of new opportunities for collaboration between member firms.

Against the backdrop of an increasingly complex global mobility landscape, we will reflect on some of the key developments shaping the industry today. From evolving tax and immigration frameworks to changing workforce expectations and cross-border employment trends, the meeting will provide a forum for discussing the challenges and opportunities that are influencing the future of international mobility and expatriate tax services.

Beyond the professional discussions, the session will also offer valuable opportunities to expand networks, learn from peers and identify areas where member firms can work together to deliver even greater value to clients operating internationally. As always, our objective is to foster a collaborative environment where knowledge, practical insights and best practices can be shared openly across the XLNC network.

We also warmly encourage firms beyond the Global Mobility Services Focus Group to take part in the conversation. One of XLNC's greatest strengths is the diversity of expertise across its member firms, and we believe that broader participation enriches discussions, generates new perspectives and creates further opportunities for collaboration. Whether you are already active in international mobility or simply interested in exploring this area, we would be delighted to welcome you.
